Sunday, January 26, 1908.

It is a mighty hard thing for a man that is dead broke to have much nerve.

If love was not blind, the ministers' perquisites would not amount to much.

Happiness with some people is synonymous with a fat bank account.

A strong minded woman and a sentimental man never pair up well together.

There never started a good movement in the world but what the croaker and the knocker was there with his pail of cold water.

Two women and one man who can get along harmoniously under the same roof is about as hard to find as the North pole.

Columbus boys will not debate against a Cornell girl. But they have the best of reasons. They are afraid they would be beaten.

RICE CULTIVATION IN MISSISSIPPI

Congressman Humphreys is now in Jackson conferring with Governor Noel and the penitentiary trustees with the view of getting the state to make a test of rice cultivation on the Parchman state convict farm. Mr. Humphreys has with him a United States government expert, Dr. S. A. Knapp, who has made the cultivation of rice a thorough study, and he, with Mr. Humphreys, have made a close study of the product in southern Louisiana, and their deduction are that rice can be as successfully cultivated in this state as in Louisiana, and being alive to every opportunity and the importance of this crop to Mississippi, Mr. Humphreys is very anxious to have an experiment made on the state farm.

It is clearly the duty of the state to make the experiment for the benefit of our farmers. We have the lands suitable for the purpose, but so far as we know, no farmer has made any risk with a new crop without some idea of how he should go about to raise and produce it profitably and successfully. The state has the means and the labor, and if put to this use would make the experiment one of the most important and interesting ever attempted. If the experiment in rice cultivation should prove successful the state will have accomplished a great and lasting benefit to our farmers; if it proves a failure, our farmers will be saved an expense that will be a material saving. Either way the farmers are benefited.

Mr. Humphreys has the promise of the agricultural department that the experiment will be given a thorough test under the direction of men connected with the department who are fully capable of making the experiment a satisfactory one.

Under such conditions there is no reason why the cultivation of rice should not be made by the state. Our lands are adapted for its cultivation and all we need is the lessons on how to prepare the ground, plant the crop and raise and market it. It is up to the state to do this for the benefit of our farmers.

THE KNOX BILL.

The bill that Senator Knox of Pennsylvania has introduced, intended to take the place of the employers' liability law which was declared unconstitutional by the supreme court, is of tremendous importance to hundreds of thousands of railroad employees throughout the country.

The Knox bill makes all railroads engaged in interstate commerce liable to their employees for injury incurred in service, and to their heirs in the event of fatal accident. The bill overturns the fellow servant doctrine and greatly modifies the rule of contributory negligence. Under its terms the fact that an employee is killed or injured as the result of carelessness on the part of a fellow-servant does not relieve the employer from liability; nor does contributory negligence bar any injured employee from bringing suit for damages; it merely lessens the amount of damage in proportion to the percentage of negligence.

One feature of the bill which is intended to right a very serious wrong now generally in vogue is that which provides that no contract of employment, insurance, relief, benefit, etc., can constitute a bar of defense to an action brought to recover damages for personal injuries or death.

Eminent lawyers appear to think that Senator Knox's bill meets all the objections raised to the other law by the supreme court. The principal difficulty that it now faces is getting through congress. Congress will be obliged to take up the question, for the men employed on the railroads are insistent that they be given a more humane law than one now on the statute books. Congress can hardly afford to disregard their call, especially during a presidential year.

ORANGE GROWING IN MISSISSIPPI

Mississippi is fast regaining the loss in orange growing occasioned by the big freeze of several years ago. After a long and careful search an orange has been found which is almost immune from freezes; it is sweet; has no seed, and can be peeled with the fingers as you would a tangerine.

The greatest drawback to the cultivation of the orange in Mississippi of late years has been the cold weather, but government experts and scientists have discovered an orange of Japanese growth which cannot be hurt by low temperature until 7 degrees above zero is reached, and this temperature is lower than we have seen in the southern Mississippi.

A great number of the residents of that section are now planting hundreds of acres in this orange which is known as the Satsuma. One gentleman has something over sixteen acres in fruit bearing trees of this variety and in the next year they netted him something over $800 an acre.

The writer has seen as many as eighteen of these oranges on one branch thirty inches long, and has counted on one tree, the first year it bore fruit, 386 oranges. Our sea-coast country is fast coming to the front as an agricultural, mechanical, commercial and marine centre, and with the Panama canal completed, and deep water at Gulfport, Biloxi and Scranton or Pascagoula, one feels that it will soon be "God's country" of the south.

Gentlemen.

I am selling life, fire and accident insurance and will greatly appreciate any business entrusted to me. I am connected with Geo. Wheatley, the best posted insurance agent in the south. He says that the Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance Co., and the Employers Assurance Co., are the best on earth. I will be pleased to prove same to you.
